Hello

I've spent the last few years working with some great people to produce high quality, well thought out solutions for a range of clients, like producing the development of virginmoney.com.au, drivingsirrichard.com.au and amplify.amp.com.au—just to name a few.

My role ranges from designer, developer, project management and production to taking clients out to some of my favourite restaurants in like Pony, La Sala and Bel Mondo—naturally, securing more work and great relationships.

I'm looking for a role that will harness my abilities to take an idea from conception to delivery, understanding the planning, design and development stages; while managing a team to ensure that great results with a meticulous attention to detail.

Can answer just about any question you might have on just about any topic, and most importantly, do so in a very professional manner

Things I believe

1. The Internet/Technology should be simple and easy to use
2. UI should be complementary to the content, not the other way round
3. Flash should be used for advanced interactivity not entire websites
4. User experience is king
5. Social media is a tool and should be treated as such
6. No clean feed. We're all individually responsible
7. People shouldn't be charged for poor content
8. Helvetica is so overused
